Purpose: The European Ceramic Society-American Ceramic Society Joint Award recognizes people who foster international cooperation between the American Ceramic Society and the European Ceramic Society, in demonstration of both organizations' commitment to work together to better serve the international ceramics community.

Rules:

1. Nominee must have been an ACerS or ECerS member during a period of at least one year leading up to the nomination.
2. Nominations may be made by any current ECerS or ACerS member, or by ECerS or ACerS staff. Self-nomination is not permitted.
3. A nomination form must be submitted and should include a statement of no more than 500 words stating the nominee's leadership and service to further cooperation between ECerS and ACerS either over a period of several years, or highlighting service over and above expectations in a single event/activity, such as organizing a meeting, chairing a committee or task force, recruiting new members, frequently writing and/or reviewing for ECerS and ACerS publications, or tirelessly promoting both Societies positive interactions in the ceramics and glass community to the rest of the world.

Only the nomination form may be submitted. No CVs, letters of support, or additional materials are permitted. Materials that exceed the limitation will not be considered.

The ECerS-ACerS Joint Award selection committee will select the awardee.

4. Nomination forms must be submitted by January 15 of each calendar year.
  5. Nominations are active for three reviews by the selection committee. The nominee may be nominated again after that, but the volunteer activity described should be a different one than originally submitted. The membership criterion in Rule 1 needs to continue to be satisfied at the relevant deadlines in subsequent years of consideration.
